

Health and Safety for Homeworkers

Regardless of where an employee works, the employer still has a responsibility to ensure the health, safety, and welfare of their employees, as far as is reasonably practicable. It is essential that employers train their homeworkers on how to recognise the possible risks when working at home including manual handling, DSE, slips trips and falls, and fire hazards.

This online training course is for people who work at home, some, or all of the time. It is designed to teach the user their responsibilities when it comes to employees working at home, and best practice for safe working from their home.

COURSE CONTENTS

The course covers the following four elements:

- Responsibilities and Legal Requirements
- Hazards and Risks
- Working at Home
- Safety and Emergency
- Procedures
